

Dr. Charles Wallington, Jr. Award of Excellence

The Dr. Charles Wallington, Jr. Award of Excellence is presented in honor of Dr. Charles Wallington, Jr, a beloved husband, father, and tireless Adventist Community servant. He believed the foundation of a productive engaged life began with dedicated service to the Lord and a dedication to excellence in education. Charles had a passion for mentoring the youth through the Pathfinder ministry in Atlanta and Austell, GA where he served multiple Pathfinder clubs in the capacity of director, counselor and mentor to newly appointed directors. Dr. Wallington, the owner and chief therapist of Aristos Health Group in Austell, GA, was a noted physical therapist and gifted researcher/professor at Oakwood University. Dr. Wallington lived a life that displayed his belief that he was not just a fan, but a follower of Jesus Christ.

Award:

$1000

Eligibility:

- Graduating Senior
- Accepted to an Adventist College or University
- GPA 3.2

Requirements:

1. Essay – 500-700 words. Tell us about yourself. Include service projects that you have been a part of and how that has helped you decide what career path you would like to take. Also, please indicate how winning this award of excellence will allow you to help others and include how you've used your resources to help others in the past.
2. Two (2) Letters of Recommendation – Please submit two letters of recommendation. The letters must come from people who are well-acquainted with your work ethic and character and must express examples of how both have been displayed in the past. Letters from relatives are not permitted.
3. Transcript – Submit an unofficial copy of your transcript showing you currently hold a 3.2 GPA.

How to Submit:

Please submit your essay, transcript and letters of recommendation in one submission to charlesandjaneanewallington@yahoo.com by May 2, 2017.